

Northstar Technologies

Company Handbook

Our company, Northstar Technologies, develops software products for business customers.

The standard working week is Monday through Friday. Employees normally work eight hours per day.

The company provides employees with access to internal training programs. Employees should discuss training plans with their manager before enrolling.

The company observes public holidays according to the employee's work location.

Office and Conduct

Employees are expected to communicate respectfully with colleagues and customers.

Company equipment must be used primarily for business purposes and handled with reasonable care.

Employees should report security incidents or suspected loss of company information to the IT team as soon as possible.